The Coins of China.

China is the paradise of the numismatist. The collections of cash, according to Consul Edward Belloc's report to the state department, are something marvellous. They are small coins of bronze, brass, copper or silver, ranging in intrinsic value from one-twentieth of a cent to 25 cents. The oldest of these coins on record appeared about 2200 B. C.
Over 150,000 different kinds of cash are preserved in collections.

Some are wonderful examples of coinage, but most of them are clumsy and coarse. The numismatist can work all his life, spend very little money and leave to posterity thousands of coins. All he needs to do is to confine his work to the collection of cash, the small coins in brass and bronze, whose value ranges from one-tenth to one-fourteenth of a cent.
Their workmanship varies, but is usually very good.

Their shape today is like that of European coins, with the exception that through the center is a square hole through which the coins are strung together like beads. In the past, however, other forms were employed, including the square, triangle, heart, ellipse, shield, key, sword and spear. The number of kinds is simply immense. They are referred to in the literature as far back as 250 B. C.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Human Nature in Eating.

"If I can see a man handle his fork," said the clerk, "I can tell you the part of the country he hails from."
"The hotel dining room is the best place in the world to study human nature and the manners and breeding of our fellows. It seems odd that people in this enlightened and advanced age will still feed themselves with their knives, especially in a first class hotel. Yet instances of this habit are very frequent. In my opinion a man who feeds himself with his knife should be boiled alive in oil."

"As a rule guests from Boston and New York are the most correct in their table deportment. They are very exacting as to service, and all manipulate their knives and forks in one way, which is the proper way.
It may seem a trifle strange to form a basis for a judgment of a man's character on the manner in which he holds his fork, but it is a correct one.
Some stick it between their first and second fingers, others between the middle and third fingers, while others grasp it as you would grasp a pineapple cheese scoop."—Washington Star.

Old and New Fashioned Diseases.

"Heart failure is a comparatively new term. It wasn't written on certificates of death 10 years ago," said W. H. Osborne of Plainfield, N. J.
"It used to be that when a man died and the doctors didn't know exactly what caused his death they attributed it as conclusively then to a complication of diseases as they do now to heart failure. The complication gag doesn't work any more with the physicians. The proper term is heart failure. It is a heart failure. Here's peculiar, too, having a revel at the expense of the country's death rate.
Not so very long ago we used to call it hasty consumption, and what we now dignify into malaria and dose ourselves with quinine for was plain, everyday chills and fever which I was a boy. This thing of Bostonizing our diseases makes medicine the expensive thing we find it."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Elite Butler.

In Boston's swell circles there is a family whose butler has given to it a unique position. Michael had not been in Boston very long before he became imbued with the classic learning of the "Flib," and he immediately put the learning to use. Mrs.
Marblehall was to give a reception, and of course Michael stood at the door. One by one the guests came in, and Michael announced the names very distinctly. But at last Mr. Foote and his two daughters came in. The butler looked at the guests and hesi-tated. He rubbed his hands against his forehead and mustered courage to speak before the crowded guests, and in a sepulchral voice he cried,
"Mr. Foote—and the Misses Feet!"
—San Francisco Argonaut.

People Who Rarely Wink.

There are people who rarely wink.
How they manage to get along without doing so is a marvel, but somehow or other they do. Some eyes are naturally more moist than others, and the very moist eye does not so much need the assistance of the lids to keep the eyeball bright. It is a constitutional matter, for winking, though under the control of the will, is done so quickly that it is practically an involuntary action. Men wink when they feel that the eye is uncomfortably dry, and when it does not become dry the necessity for winking is not felt.—Exchange.

Lowering the Thermometer.

An usher at Centenary church at Greenesboro, N. C., got a little frustrated one Sunday night recently, but he did the best thing that he could under the circumstances. The church was extremely warm and he thought that the ladies who were present would be comfortable if he could lower the temperature.

He took a thermometer and found that the temperature was 75 degrees. He then opened the windows and the temperature fell to 65 degrees. He was satisfied.

Why Lost People Walk in Circles.

It is a matter of common knowledge that when a man is walking blindfolded or is lost in a fog or in some unknown forest or desert instead of walking straight he has always a tendency to walk round in a circle.
The most commonly accepted explanation of this curious fact is the slight inequality of a man's legs. The result of one limb being longer than the other will naturally be that a person will unconsciously take a longer step with the longer limb, and consequently will tend to the right or to the left, according as the left or right is the longer, unless the tendency to deviation is corrected by the eye.

This explanation is supported by the fact that in the enormous majority of cases the human legs are proved to be of unequal length. The careful measurements of a series of skeletons showed that no less than 90 per cent had the right limb unequal in length to the left, while in 55 per cent the left leg was the longer. The left leg being, therefore, more often the longer, it is to be expected that the inclination should take place more frequently to the right than to the left, and this conclusion is quite borne out by observations made on a number of persons when walking blindfolded.— Science Siftings.

Hereditary Traits and Defects.

The germ cell theory, which meets with the guarded approval of the eminent embryologists, Geddes and Thomson, sufficiently accounts for the wonderful continuity of germ cells (which thus resemble the protozoa in their immortality) for the reappearance at long intervals of time in a family of some formerly characteristic feature or peculiarity, such as a Roman nose, red hair, somnambulism, left handedness, an extra finger and so on. And this after years of intermarriages with families not related, so that one would expect that all the earlier traits had died out.

Certain diseases are local in origin and yet may become hereditary.
Thus, in many sunless Alpine valleys, ill drained and malarious, where the only drinking water is calcareous, derived from snow or glaciers, gout exists in both sexes for generations, culminating in cretinism, a form of idiocy. When an Alpine valley has been put into good sanitary condition and proper water provided, these diseases have disappeared from the place and even victims to gout have been cured by being removed from their old environment early in life and have had healthy children. Thus also Norwegian lepers save their lives by emigrating to America.—Homoeopathic Review.

Glycerin as a Lubricant.

Glycerin is one of those substances that always seems to be lending themselves to new and unexpected applications. It is found that the freezing of water in the pipes of hydraulic machinery—a very serious source of trouble in the winter months—is entirely prevented by the simple expenditure of mixing a small percentage of glycerin with the water in the pumps. This precaution is now taken in the operation of the hydraulic jacks on all ships of the English navy. Glycerin appears to be just as useful in maintaining the efficiency of the human machinery, for it is recommended as a sure cure for indigestion. A small teaspoonful should be mixed in half a wineglassful of water, and taken with or immediately after each meal until the trouble is past, which, in an ordinary case, will be in two or three days' time, and in an obstinate one probably from 10 to 15 days.
The treatment will have to be renewed if the indigestion manifests itself again.—Exchange.

Old Italian in Corsica.

The Italian who travels in Corsica is delighted to hear almost everywhere around him the obsolete expressions and terminations of Dante, while even the Englishman unacquainted with the "Comedy," is surprised at the sound of Latin words, which he thought had fallen entirely into oblivion, such as "Nimfo" for "Nessuno" and "Greve" for "Pe-sante," or with Latinized forms of current words, such as "Piuvra" for "Pioggia," "Ista" for "Questua" and
"Ejo" for "Io."

The Corsican, however, is an older Italian than that even of the medieval poet. It is less specialized on the whole than his, having points of contact with the other dialects, particularly those of Calabria and Sicily, and with the literary languages of Spain and Portugal.—Studies in Corsica.

Indians With Queer Titles.

How would you like to go to school where the roll call is like this: "Sophia Little Bear, Annie Red Crane, Lizzie Spider, Kister, Gray Cloud, Laughing Face, Delay Ankle, Joseph White Plume, Frank Yellowbird, Porcupine Creek?"

All these are real names taken from the catalogue of every Indian school for Indians at Hampton, Va. I am told that some of these names have become disreputable.

HEROIC DEATH OF AN OLD TURK.

Ahmed Said Pasha Faced His Enemies and Died Cursing Them.

When the dervishes entered the divan or large hall of the Mudirich, they found the commandant, Ahmed Said Pasha, sitting in a high back, carved armchair of stained wood, bolt upright and with folded arms.
They rushed at him to slay him, but he looked straight at them and exclaimed: "Back, dogs! Touch me not! You would defile me, base rebels! I will go of myself and see the archangel, Mohammed Ahmed. Show the way!" The dervishes, startled at his words and threatening demeanor, drew back, and the brave old Turk went before the mahdi, who as soon as he saw him ordered him to be searched.

This was done just as he was drawing a loaded revolver out from his clothes to slay the prophet, who had a narrow escape. The mahdi then said: "Take the cursed dog of a Turk away and sell him by auction in the bazaar. Away with him!" So the pasha was led away and exposed for sale in the market place. No one dared to buy him till one of the mahdi's emirs came up and said in derision: "Oh, auctioneer! I will surely give 680 piasters for the man." He was therefore knocked down to the emir.

When the mahdi heard this, he sent an order that the pasha was to be killed at once, and some dervishes went forth from his presence to carry out the order. When they came to the emir's house, they ordered the pasha to be brought forth. He came out by himself with proud, fearless look and demeanor, his head in the air. The dervishes drew their swords.
"So you have come to murder me, have you? Ye cursed, cowardly dogs!
I fear you not. May your fathers' graves be defiled! I curse them, you and the vile women who bore you. I curse your fathers and your mothers back for three generations. All your mothers and sisters are abandoned women. I curse you all, and your vile false prophet, Mohammed Ahmed."

They then fell upon him, and he died, without fear, pouring imaledictions on the rebels with his last breath. The dervishes then rushed to where Ali Bey Sharif and the other Egyptian officers were and slew them all. When they returned to the mahdi and told him what they had done, he pretended to be angry, shed tears and told the dervishes they were bloodthirsty and that their acts did not please him.—"Ten Years' Captivity in the Sudan."

Philosophy and Treatment of a Boil.

Let us look at the philosophy of the boil, the carbuncle and like affections. Some fault exists in the regular elimination, and the morbid material is collected at some convenient point to force it out of the system in an extraordinary manner, and it will be noticed that a wall of coagulable lymph forms around it to complete the encasement, and the obvious indication is to assist in this work, which can be done in the most admirable way by applying collodion over the hardened, thickened part, leaving the center uncovered.

A Dull Boy's Answer.

Once upon a time there dwelt in Yorkshire a schoolmaster under whose care was a boy apparently so dull as to be the butt of his class. In the teasing of that boy the master was mean enough to join. Calling the urchin to him one morning he said, "Tommy Jones, I have a very simple question in arithmetic for you, and dull as you are I think you can answer it." "Yes, please, sir." "At the baker's near by they sell penny buns, don't they?" "Yes, please, sir."
"How much would two of them come to?" "Dunno, please, sir." "You don't know, you little donkey. Aren't two penny buns always twopence?"
"No, please, sir. They sell 'em—two—for—three—ha'pence—when—they're—stale." And the fogging which threatened Tommy Jones was omitted.—New York Sun.

Surprises in a Small Town.

A sudden fancy, or fever rather, has taken possession of the young married men lately, causing them to appear with smooth faces, which has led to curious results. Men who have always lived here and were formerly well known have found themselves treated as strangers by their friends failing to recognize them. Two men who have never been thought to look alike are now being continually mistaken for each other. Several mistakes of many years' growth have been sacrificed to the demands of this fashion. But already some of the reformers have grown nervous, repeatedly reminding them to recover their lost winks.—Augusta (Ga.) Journal.

During the recent influenza, which occurred in the city of San Francisco, the disease was very prevalent. It was found that the disease was very prevalent in the city of San Francisco, and it was found that the disease was very prevalent in the city of San Francisco.

DEATH OF LELAND STANFORD.

LELAND STANFORD died very suddenly at his Palo Alto residence at 12 o'clock last Tuesday night. To the general public his death was a great surprise, but to the Senator's relatives and intimate friends, who were better acquainted with his failing health, which has been very poor for several months, his sudden taking off was not entirely unexpected. Leland Stanford was essentially a Californian, having located in this State forty-one years ago, during which time he amassed a colossal fortune, variously estimated at from $40,000,000 to $60,000,000. But while looking out for Number One he did not forget his friends, and there are thousands of well-to-do people in this State to-day who owe their prosperity to his assistance and advice.

As a developer of the resources of the Pacific Coast States and Territories he has done more than any other one man to make California what she is to-day. He has built railroads, made towns out of nothing and cities out of towns. Unlike other California millionaires he did not desert his adopted State, where he had acquired his wealth, but the last years of his life have been devoted to California and Californians. That the Senator has been appreciated by the people no better evidence is wanting than the fact that he has been its Governor and has twice been elected a United States Senator. In the death of Leland Stanford California loses its best friend and benefactor.

SENATOR PLUMP is quoted as having said "I believe in the local newspapers. They are the leaders, the makers of public sentiment. They are nearer to the people than any other papers. The editor mingle with the people, and consciously or unconsciously reflect the views of their readers. By my own private letters from all parts of the State and by reading the local papers I can tell just what the people of Kansas are talking and thinking about. I can feel the pulse of the people and take their temperature. I am amazed, too, at the excellence of our country papers. The majority of them are carefully, ably edited. They not only print the news of the neighborhood, but have opinions which I find it worth my time to read and reflect upon. I get no better return for any of the money which I spend than for that which I pay out for the local newspapers of my State."

For Musical People.

"The Song Friend" for June is at hand with its wealth of vocal and instrumental music and its bright, interesting and instructive paragraphs and articles of voice culture, church and instrumental music, theory, musical news, etc. Among the pieces of choice music in this number are "How to Ask and Have," "The Music of the Sea," both beautiful solos; "We Come, Come Again," and "The Sparrows Fall," both by T. Martin Towne; "Help to Win the Day," by S. W. Straub; "The Good Shepherd is Calling," by J. M. Stillman; and the charming instrumental number, "The Merry School Girl Waltzes." These selections are all very choice. The music in this number would cost nearly $1.00 at regular publisher's price. "The Song Friend" is a 32-page journal of rare excellence. The subscription price is only $1.00 a year with a premium of three pieces of select music. The publishers, S. W. STRAUB & CO., 245 State street, Chicago, offer to send it three months for only 25 cents.

It is said you can sharpen scissors by taking a coarse sewing needle. Hold it firmly between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand, then take the scissors in your right hand and cut smoothly and quickly from hand to point. The duller scissors, unless they are entirely worn out, can soon be sharpened in this way.

A visitor to the World's Fair, who was caught flirting with one of the pretty employees, has been fined $5. Even flirting has to be paid for at pretty high rates in the "White City."

How is this?

Something unique even in these days of mammoth premium offers, it is the latest effort of Stafford's Magazine, a New York monthly of home and general reading.

The proposition is to send the Magazine one year for one dollar, the regular subscription price; and in addition to send each subscriber fifty-two complete novels during the twelve months: one each week.

Think of it. You receive a new and complete novel, by mail, post paid, every week for fifty-two weeks, and in addition you get the Magazine once a month, for twelve months, all for one dollar. It is an offer which the publishers can only afford to make in the confident expectations of getting a hundred thousand new subscribers. Among the authors in the coming series are, Wilkie Collins, Walter Besant, Mrs. Oliphant, Mary Cecil Hay, Florence Marryat, Anthony Trollope, A. Conan Doyle, Miss Braddon, Captain Marryat, Miss Thackeray and Jules Verne. If you wish to take advantage of this unusual opportunity, send one dollar for Stafford's Magazine, one year. Your first copy of the magazine and your first number of the fifty-two novels (one each week) which you are to receive during the year will be sent you by return mail. Remit by P. O. The alarm of fire which brought out the volunteer firemen on Saturday at 1:45 P. M. was for a grass fire in the front yard of Nick Ahern's residence on First-street West near the railway depot. The firemen by their prompt arrival on the ground succeeded in saving the barn and dwelling, which were in great danger of being destroyed as the wind was blowing very high at the time. The fire did little or no damage. It was started by a lighted cigar stump which had been carelessly tossed aside by a man on his way to the depot, which fell into the dry grass that fringed the inner side of the walk and in a few seconds thereafter the grass was in flames.

A HEORIC MOTHER.

Mrs. Wm. McElroy Badly Burned in Saving Her Child.

On Wednesday evening last, Lucy, the little five-year-old daughter of Mr. Wm. McElroy, the well-known manager of Rhine Farm, while playing in the back yard of their residence near this place, fell into a pile of hot ashes, and in an instant the child's clothes were in flames. Mrs. McElroy, with a mother's devotion, and in answer to her offspring's screams, immediately went to her little one's assistance and with rare presence of mind seized her child and at the peril of her own life succeeded in smothering the flames. The little one escaped with a few blisters. The heroic mother, however, was not so fortunate. In smothering the flames, she badly burned her hands and arms, and her face. Dr. Walliser was sent for and found Mrs. McElroy suffering excruciating pains from the burns, but after applying the proper remedies succeeded, in a measure, in allaying her sufferings. The mother's injuries although painful are not necessarily dangerous.

FOREST FIRE.

Several Thousand Acres of Pasturage and a Quantity of Fencing Destroyed.

A grass fire broke out opposite Capt. H. E. Boyes' place last Saturday a short time after the noon hour and being fanned by a high west wind spread with lightning-like rapidity to the mountains skirting the valley on the north. Nearly every able-bodied man in the valley, armed with wet sacks, was out fighting the fire within a half hour after it broke out. For a time the flames threatened the destruction of the Appleton, Dutton, Weems, Faber and the Mt. Pisgah ranches, but in every instance the fire-fighters, by back firing, succeeded in saving the dwellings, barns and outhouses on all the farms in the track of the flames. At 9:30 o'clock the fire was got under control after having destroyed thousands of acres of pasturage and several miles of fencing.

McKeown-Ehrlich.

Miss Harriet Ehrlich was married at the home of her parents in San Francisco last Sunday to Mr. Eugene McKeown. Miss Ehrlich is the eldest daughter of F. Ehrlich and is a native of Sonoma Valley. The bridegroom hails from Denver, but proposes to settle in the Bay City. The officiating clergyman was Pastor Buehler, the well-known Lutheran divine of San Francisco, and an old time acquaintance of the Ehrlich family. At the wedding the health of the new pair was proposed by Dr. W. K. Vance. Thereafter the merry couple journeyed to San Jose for the honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. McKeown were recipients of several handsome gifts.

The Carriger Will Case.

This case still drags its slow length along in the courts. As announced in these columns three weeks ago, Judge Crawford has set aside the verdict of the jury, which removed Sol Carriger as the administrator of the Wm. W. Carriger estate and put in Mrs. Kate Carriger, the widow. The latter, through her attorney, has now given notice that she will take an appeal to the Supreme Court.

Taken to Napa.

Miss Van Geldern of this place, who was sent to the County Hospital on Thursday of last week, pending an examination on a charge of insanity, was declared of unsound mind by Judge Dougherty on Friday and has been taken to Napa.

The editor of a rural weekly journal lately lost two of his subscribers through accidentally departing from the beaten track in his answers to correspondents. Two of his subscribers wrote to him to ask him for his remedy for their respective troubles. No. 1, a happy father of twins, wrote to inquire the best way to get them safely over their teething, and No. 2 wanted to know how to protect his orchard from the myriads of grasshoppers. The editor framed his answers upon the orthodox lines, but unfortunately transposed their two names, with the result that No. 1, who was blessed with the twins, read, in reply to his query, "Cover them carefully with straw and set fire to them, and the little pests after jumping about in the flames a few minutes will speedily be settled." Whilst No. 2, plagued with grasshoppers, was told to "Give a little castor oil and rub their gums gently with a bone ring."

Why suffer with sick headache and biliousness when Simmons Liver Regulator will cure you.

Abner Colwell Crushed to Death.

Abner Colwell, a brother of Walter Colwell of this place, met with an accident at Guerneville, last Saturday afternoon, that caused his death a few hours later. It appears that the deceased, who was employed on a logging train as brakeman, had his head caught between the ends of the logs which extended beyond the ends of the two cars between which he was working. He went home soon after, walking a quarter of a mile unattended. He stopped at a doctor's office on the way and the physician was unable to detect any serious injuries. On arriving at his house he took a bath and retired, apparently little the worse for his accident. At 2 o'clock Sunday morning he was a corpse. As there was no fracture of the skull, death must have resulted from acute concussion of the brain. While on his way to San Francisco on Sunday Walter Colwell learned of his brother's accident and death and upon reaching San Rafael took the return train for Guerneville. The deceased leaves a widow and one child.

Closing Exercises of San Luis School.

Another Improvement.

H. N. Krager of the Bank Exchange has recently added another story to his place of business for the accommodation of his patrons, which will be used as a billiard parlor. It will be fitted up with new billiard tables, oil paintings, etc., and will be made as cozy as possible. The sample rooms on the lower floor have also been greatly improved the past week, having been newly painted, papered and otherwise improved. The Bank Exchange since passing into the hands of Mr. Krager has become a popular resort and is a very pleasant place to get an iced lemonade or any other kind of a beverage these warm days.

Among the many "freaks" offered for exhibition at the World's Fair is a hen that always walks backward, a Shetland pony that is so small that her shoes are made from $20 gold pieces, a razor that had been used by George Washington, an Indiana prodigy, aged four years, who can recite "Thanatopsis," and a garment 400 years old.

At Valley Ford in this county little Eugene Woodson, two-and-a-half years old, fell into a well thirty feet deep. His twelve-year-old brother Willie immediately slid down the rope, caught the child and held his head above water until assistance came. It was some time before the little fellow regained consciousness.

Mrs. Leland Stanford possesses one of the most remarkable collections of jewels in the world. It is valued at $2,000,000 and in it are included a set of pink diamonds, one of blue, one of yellow and one of white. A burglar-proof steel safe with a time lock holds these treasures, but they cannot absorb many of Mrs. Stanford's thoughts, for she is said to care little for dress or fashion, and she is keenly interested in all of Senator Stanford's benevolent schemes.

Lawyer Poppe visited the County Seat Monday.

F. Clewe, one of Sonoma's prominent merchants, was a visitor at Santa Rosa last Monday.

A thin coat of varnish applied to straw matting will make it much more durable and keep the matting looking fresh and new.

Mosquitoes may be kept away by sponging the body with a diluted extract of pennyroyal, which also allays the pain of their bites.

Mrs. A. Harrison, the charming hostess of the Mervyn Hotel, Glen Ellen, was in town Monday, accompanied by a lady friend.

In the cremation chambers at Milan, Italy, portraits of the dead are attached to the urns in which their ashes are preserved.

Miss Nellie Conlin and Harry Faithful were married in St. Francis' Church last Sunday at high noon. The contracting parties took the Donahue afternoon train for San Francisco.

Miss Joanna Tobin, well known to many Sonoma people, graduated yesterday from the State Normal school, San Jose. Miss Joanna was always a bright and industrious young lady and we trust that the future will be kind and prosperous to her.

"Oh, yes?" said the eldest Miss Culture the other evening. "I breakfasted yesterday with Mrs. Brainweight and we enjoyed a delicious repast—excellent coffee, superior bread and piscatorial globes, done admirable." "What?" asked her friend. "Piscatorial globes?" repeated the maiden. "And what under the sun are they?" "I believe," said Miss Culture, "I believe uncultured people call them fish-balls."

On Friday evening of last week Sonoma Valley citizens listened to a programme of unusual merit which was presented by the scholars of the public school at Union Hall. As soon as the doors were opened the crowd in waiting rapidly filled every seat in the building, and before the curtain was raised standing room only was to be had.

Prof. Abshire announced that the first number on the programme would be a song by the primary class, followed by an address of welcome by Julie Granice. George Goess then stepped forward and recited a temperance piece. Stella Lowell, a little Miss of 10 years, sang a beautiful Scotch ballad, after which Mr. Chas. Lowell read an essay which was well received. This was followed by a character song in which Theo Bates appeared as a ragged match girl and Julie Granice as a news boy, singing "We are Two Little Ragged Orphans." After this came a beautiful ring drill by ten little girls dressed in pretty bright costumes which brought forth much applause. A dialogue, entitled "The Crowning of June," made quite an impression on the audience and presented a most picturesque scene. A song, "Speed Away," was rendered by twelve girls. The vocal trio by three little girls and the recitation by Clarence Cheney were good. The character song by seven little boys was greeted by loud applause. The parol drill, in which six little girls dressed as Japanese ladies, was one of the best numbers and brought forth a recall. The beautiful instrumental solo played on the piano by Miss Ora Lawrence was well received and showed that the young lady has much musical ability. The wand drill by twelve young ladies who wore red and white costumes was the hit of the evening and all their movements showed fine training. After this drill Miss Bertha Campbell, a tall graceful young lady, stepped forward and recited a pathetic poem entitled "Jerry." This was followed by a comic dialogue which caused much laughter and brought round after round of applause. The closing number was a vocal solo by Miss Claire Hope. The young lady has a beautiful, clear soprano voice and well earned the applause she received. Prof. Abshire then announced that ice cream and cake could be had at the booth for the small sum of 15 cents and the proceeds would be placed to the credit of the piano fund. The Prof. with his assistants are deserving of much praise for the creditable manner in which they drill the children and for the general training and improvement of the Sonoma public school pupils. The entertainment, which was given for the purpose of raising funds to buy a new piano for the school, netted $85.
